Mniled States Senate

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

October 6, 1971

The Subcommittee on Financial Institutions of the Senate Banking Committee will hold hearings on the Fair Credit Billing Act on October 26-29. This legislation helps consumers settle billing on October with creditors and regulates other unfair billing practices. A copy of a statement I made about the legislation is enclosed for your information.

In holding hearings the Subcommittee is interested in testimony from consumers about their billing problems. Your name has come to my attention from a list of those who have written to Congress or to others about unfair billing practices. Because of your first or to others about unfair billing practices. Because of your first hand experience, I hope you will consider testifying before the Subcommittee.

Consumer witnesses who testify will be expected to give a five to ten minute summary of their billing experience and their views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on whether legislation such as the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on which is view of the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on which is view of the Fair Credit Billing Act is views on which is view of the Fair Credit Billing Act is view of the Fair Credit Billing

If you are interested in testifying please contact Mr. Kenneth McLean of the Subcommittee staff, Room 5308, New Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20510. His telephone number is 202-225-7391.

We look forward to hearing from you soon.
